The College recognises that all students have an equal right to a safe, stable and supportive environment in which to learn. It acknowledges at the same time that all students are unique and so, as a Benedictine community, we show respect for individual differences so that the strong have something to strive for and the weak nothing to run from 'tGj aZ'd[°7ZcZY'Xi'+) / !<ddY° Samaritan Philosophy of Education).

In turn, the focus of the College is to foster quality relationships between staff and students with the aim of supporting and protecting the young women in our care. All staff members have a responsibility to support the wellbeing and care of the students in the College at all times.

The College does not accept harassment, bullying, intimidation, violence, abuse or corporal punishment at school or its use by members of the College community or non-school persons to enforce discipline at the College.

The following strategies are integral to sustaining positive relationships and effective learning:

- Relationships that encourage students to value themselves and others
- Programs which promote resilience and a respect for self
- Structures which recognise the value of the student as an individual
- Networks which emphasize care and wellbeing within the College
- Support systems which monitor, support and respond to student behaviour
- Support for students who are at risk and supportive of school and family relationships
- Commitment to restorative justice practices integrating reflective strategies which offer students the chance for reconciliation and an opportunity for a fresh start

In establishing positive rapport with students, the staff of the College will be actively involved in enhancing student learning, resilience and wellbeing through the development and promotion of Academic Care.

The Academic Care Framework has the focus on working with the students to ensure all are treated fairly. Strategies undertaken are always with the aim of restoring and sustaining positive relationships so that students feel safe and, in turn, value being part of an effective learning and teaching community.
